In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group IV, claim(s) 30-32, drawn to method of producing pocketed coil springs.

Group V, claim(s) 33-36, drawn to apparatus for the production of pocketed coil springs.

Group VI, claim(s) 37-39, drawn to apparatus for the production of pocketed coil springs.

Group VII, claim(s) 40, drawn to a pocketed spring assembly.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I-VII do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Group I has a special technical feature of a programmable control means operably linked to coiling elements. Group II has a special technical feature of separating the coil from the wire. Group III has a special technical feature of transverse and longitudinal ultrasonic welding horns. Group IV has a special technical feature where transverse welds are formed by a plurality of ultrasonic welding horns with their lower edges arranged collinearly. Group V has a special technical feature where at least one welding horn acts against a fixed anvil provided with a surface coating which acts as a cushion for the welding horn. Group VI has a special technical feature of a magnetic means at an exit of the coiling section. Group VII has a special technical feature of a pocketed spring assembly with a depth of 20 cm or more.

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
